Moon Rocket Poised for Flight

Air Force Still Mum on Plans As Lunar Zero Hour Nears

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Lunar zero hour — the most auspicious moment for man's first tentative strike at the moon — swept closer today with the Air Force still silent as to its launching plans.

The moon rocket, a three stage Thor-Vanguard composite never before test flown, was known to be on hand at the Missile Test Center.

It was well shrouded, however, in the launching tower — familiar for its use in Thor missile firings — that houses it.

Activity Around Tower — There was enough activity around the tower to alert observers on nearby beaches that something might be brewing.

The Air Force, freely admitting that the chances of a successful firing are slim, kept its plans secret.

Authorities of the Missile Test Center flatly decline to comment as to the likelihood of a firing on any specific date or at any set time and refer queries to this official pronouncement from the Pentagon:

"The optimum relative positions of the launch point, the moon and sun occur on only four consecutive days each month; and on each of these days for only a few minutes. Obviously technical difficulties during countdown could create delays as long as a month."

First Optimum Day Sunday

The first of the four optimum days for August comes Sunday. There are also short periods Monday, Tuesday and possibly Wednesday when conditions would be most favorable for a lunar strike.

Informal sources in Washington have said that the first try at launching the moon rocket may be made about 8 a.m. Sunday.

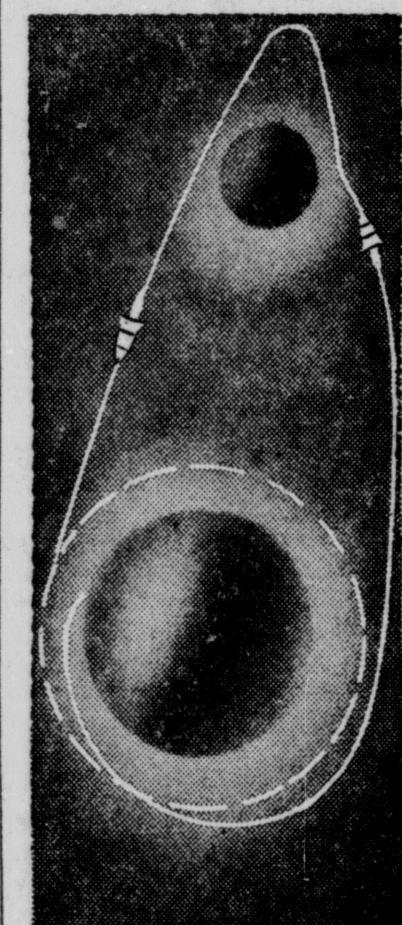

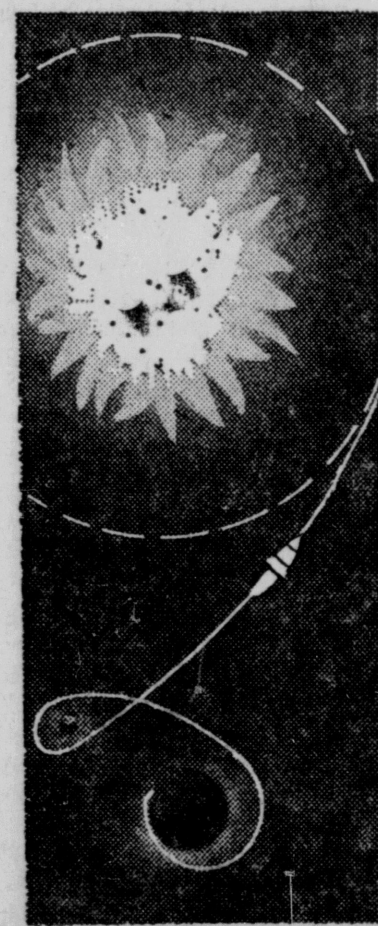

They said that if the rocket—more than 100 feet tall—is not launched within half an hour, the attempt may be postponed until a similar brief period Monday. Further postponement until Tuesday might be ordered. The experts say it also might be possible to make a try on Wednesday, although conditions then would be less favorable.

The rocket will attempt to fling an instrument package or payload far out into space at a speed so great — about 25,000 m. p. h. — that it will escape gravity and achieve free flight.

Aboard will be a device to pick up and relay to earth lunar

One Hurt, Two Cited After Truck Crashes

One person was injured and two drivers were arrested Friday following two traffic collisions in the vicinity of the highway patrol. Linda M. Brenneman, 6, of Williamsburg, Pa., was treated at Salem City Hospital for lacerations of the right leg following a collision of two trucks on Rt. 14 at the bottom of the Millville hill at 10:30 a.m.

She was a passenger in a truck driven by her father, George F. Brenneman, 36. The Brenneman truck collided with one driven by Frank Gilmore, 69, of 2714 N. Rockhill, Alliance.

The patrol reported that a car stopped to make a left turn in front of the Gilmore vehicle, causing him to swerve left of center and hitting the unidentified vehicle. Brenneman's truck coming from the other direction. Gilmore was cited for driving left of center.

Also arrested for driving left of center was Stanley Starkie, 64, of Franklin Square Rd., Leetonia, after his car collided with a truck-trailer on Rt. 344, one-half mile west of Leetonia, at 1:30 p.m.

The truck-trailer was operated by Christopher R. Tentile, 40, of 224 Oak St., Leetonia. Starkie, westbound, drove around a curve left of center, the patrol said, and struck the blade of a bulldozer being hauled by the east-bound truck. He forfeited $10 to Mayor Harold Smith.

The board will meet today and formally reject the petition, O'Hanlon said.

The secretary of state told O'Hanlon, "Inasmuch as the facts presented are essentially the same as those presented to the attorney general by the prosecuting attorney of Lucas County, 'I am casting my vote with McSweeney and Smith.'"

He pointed out Atty. Gen. William Saxbe ruled recently in an identical Lucas County case that where an individual had unsuccessfully sought office as county commissioner at the May 6 primary, he was not eligible to seek any office in the general election.

Crawford was defeated in the Democratic primary for nomination as county commissioner and then filed a four-year term as county judge about two weeks ago. He originally was elected as county judge for one year last November.

At the board's meeting Monday night, Atty. Paul Tobin, counsel for Crawford, argued the state law barring a candidate defeated in the primary from running for

Burglar Gets $105 At Store, Misses $162

Burglars entered the MacMillan Book Shop, 243 E. State St., early Friday evening and stole $105 in cash, police reported.

The breaking and entering was discovered at 1:45 a.m. by two policemen patrolling the area, who noticed the rear door of the store open.

Upon investigation, they found the store had been broken into, and the safe forced open. Police notified Miss Ora Vincent, store owner, who said $105 was missing from the safe's cash drawer. Sixty-nine dollars of the loot was in currency, and the rest was in change.

Police said another $162 in the safe was overlooked.

Entrance was made through a window on the east side of the book store. Then the person or persons broke a small pane of glass to unlatch a door leading to the front of the store, police said.

The burglar left by the rear door, according to police reports.

Funds Voted for Space Agency

Debate Continued by Senate On Social Security Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate returns today for overtime Saturday debate on a major social security bill after passing the last big catch-all money bill of this session.

Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) called a Saturday session in an effort to pass the social security measure, one of the major items of legislation he says must be enacted before adjournment.

The first test is scheduled on a move to raise the proposed benefits from 7 to 10 per cent.

Debate on the election-year social security measure began late Friday night after the Senate finally completed action on a 3.8-billion-dollar money measure. During floor debate numerous amendments were adopted adding hundreds of millions of dollars to the bill.

Among other things, the chamber voted an additional 125 million dollars for the new civilian space agency. This was 50 millions more than the sum recommended by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The Senate passage sent the bill to conference with the House, which is in recess until Monday.

With the customary last minute logjam of legislation, there was no chance for Congress to adjourn today. Issues still unresolved are expected to keep them in Washington through at least a part of next week. Among the issues:

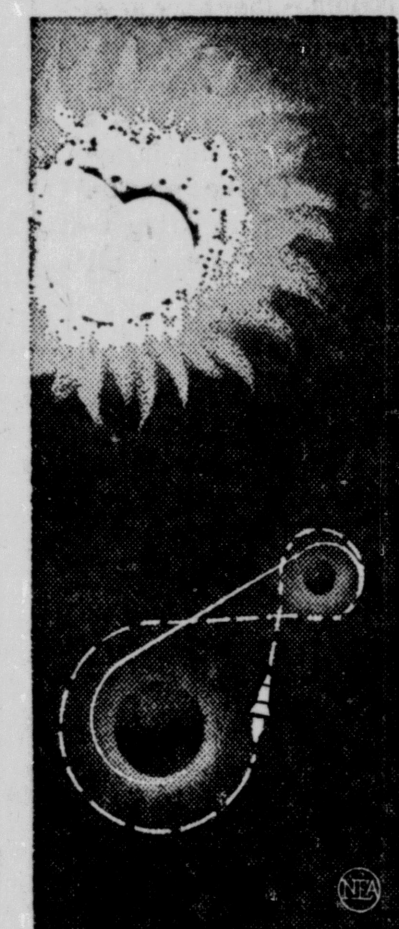

Compromise Housing Bill — 1. Housing—House leaders decided to call up for action Monday a compromise housing bill. But prospects for passage are considered dim because the measure will be acted on under a rule requiring two-thirds majority approval. Rep. Albert Rains (D-Ala.) said the bill would earmark considerably less housing money than the 1.6 billion dollars asked by the administration. The Senate has passed a 2½ billion dollar bill.

2. Depressed areas — The Senate and House must resolve differences over legislation to provide federal aid for chronically depressed regions. The House, by a vote of 176-130, passed a bill Friday that would create an agency to make loans and direct grants for area redevelopment programs. The bill differs from a Senate version in that 100 million dollars was cut from a 300-million-dollar revolving loan fund.

New Fight Shaping Up — 3. Farm—A new fight was shaping up after the House refused Senate overtures to try to work

Rocket Camera To Probe Moon

May Give Answers To Many Questions

By The Associated Press
What's on the other side of the moon?

That's probably the biggest question the Air Force hopes to answer with the camera-equipped rocket it's expected to blast toward the moon shortly—perhaps Sunday morning.

But there are also other questions the rocket, if it gets close enough, may help to answer. For instance:

Is the side of the moon earthlings never see the same as the face always turned towards us? What are the bright streaks, called rays, that radiate from points near some of its craters?

Are the craters the results of meteorites, volcanic action or something else?

Does some form of plant life exist there?

Has the moon an atmosphere?

But the greatest interest centers about the greatest mystery: What is on the side of the moon that forever faces deep space, the side man has never seen?

The best guess of selenographers—as lunar experts are called, after the Greek moon goddess, Selene—is that the other side of the moon is pretty much like the side we see.

They base this guess on the fact

Crossing Mishap Fatal To Canton Truck Driver

Mahoning County recorded its 11th traffic fatality of the year Friday afternoon when a Canton truck driver died in the Alliance City Hospital from injuries near Sebring four hours earlier.

Ernest Mihal, 29, of 1920 8th St. S.E., Canton, died at 2 p.m. in the hospital. He had been critically injured in the crash at the unguarded Bandy Rd. crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad, about two miles west of Sebring.

Mihal and his Sugardale Provision Co. truck were thrown approximately 115 feet by the speeding New York to Chicago passenger train shortly before 10 a.m.

W. N. Anderson, of Louisville, conductor, said the train was traveling at 65 mph at the time of the crash.

The engineer, N. C. Munson told Herbert Bollia, Smith Township constable, that the truck driver apparently did not see the oncoming train as he did not slow down for the crossing.

The crossing is marked only with railroad warning signs, and has no warning lights or gate. It is located between Routes 173 and 62.

Mihal had made a meat delivery to Nesbeth's Grocery and was on his way to Ruth and Red's Restaurant on Rt. 173.

The truck and its contents were a total loss. Company officials estimated that the truck and the some 4,000 pounds of meat it carried were worth approximately $15,000.

Teamster Veep May Be Ousted

Board Says Brennan Misused Union Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The general counsel for the Teamsters indicated today the giant union will comply with an order by court-appointed monitors to suspend Teamster Vice President Owen (Bert) Brennan from office.

Atty. Edward Bennett Williams said he wanted to study the order and discuss it with Teamsters President James R. Hoffa before commenting fully.

But he told a reporter the union has complied with other orders of the three-man board of monitors and "this would be a departure if we did not."

The monitors, by a 2-1 vote Friday, set Aug. 25 as the deadline for the Teamsters to charge Brennan with misappropriation of union funds—a charge aimed at his expulsion from the scandal-plagued union.

At the same time, the monitors asked that Hoffa be disqualified from taking part in the proceedings against Brennan—an old friend and close associate of the Teamster chief.

The monitors were appointed by a federal court to oversee Teamster affairs after dissident Teamster groups challenged Hoffa's elevation to the presidency.

The demand of the monitors came as the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee completed its second week of a new look at Hoffa and his union amid these developments:

Rep. Wint Smith (R-Kan.) denied bowing to political pressure to end an abortive House investigation of Hoffa in 1955. He asked to tell his story before the rackets committee, and Chairman John L. McClellan said he probably would get his chance next Tuesday.

Smith said the probe ended for one simple reason—there weren't any more witnesses.

2. Committee members hinted that Allen Dorfman, Chicago insurance man who writes policies for Teamster locals, might be cited for contempt of Congress. Dorfman fired off an angry statement against the committee yesterday, then invoked the Fifth Amendment on several occasions when he testified.

3. Gus Zapas, an Indianapolis Teamsters official, was asked if he had ever discussed getting rid of some kidnap money. The witness, an ex-convict, said he hadn't. Zapas' interrogator, Committee Chief Counsel Robert F. Kennedy, wouldn't say whether the question related to the committee's effort to obtain leads on some $300,000 still missing from the $600,000 ransom paid in the kidnapping of 6-year-old Robert Greenleaf Jr. in 1953. The boy was found dead.

Salem Man Hurt In Rt. 14 Collision

Arthur E. Frazier, 27, of 228 Jennings Ave., is in good condition at City Hospital today, recovering from accident injuries he received Friday morning. Frazier suffered lacerations of the scalp and forehead, and possible fractured ribs in a truck-car crash on Rt. 62 in Mahoning County at 7:10 a.m. yesterday.

Patrolmen cited Frazier for failure to stop in the assured clear distance ahead. He crashed into the rear of a truck-trailer as it slowed to make a turn onto the Knauf Rd.

34 Aboard Craft Destroyed In Fiery Mishap

Former AEC Head, Prominent Banker Are Among Victims

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP) — A Northeast Airlines plane from New York crashed and disintegrated near Nantucket Airport late Friday night, taking the lives of 22 of its 34 occupants.

Among the dead in the fiery crash was Gordon Dean, New York, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The three-person crew of the two-engine Convair—pilot, copilot and stewardess—perished.

Prominent Banker Killed — Prominent New York City banker Harvey Schwamm, also was killed. His wife, Lillian, was listed among the seriously injured.

A 2-year-old baby, riding in her mother's lap, lived through the crash. The mother, Mrs. Jacqueline Young, 18 of Nantucket was killed.

Airport officials said the plane was coming in about 11:30 p. m. on an instrument landing through a heavy fog when it crashed 300 yards northeast of the airport.

Most of those aboard apparently were headed for vacations or week end stays on this famous island resort, 15 miles off Cape Cod.

Two airport employees reported "a big ball of fire" as the plane plunged through the fog. They sped to the scene in a fire truck and later reported "there was fire all around us. We saw people crawling away."

Only Tail Section Intact — Robert Young, communicator for the CAA at Nantucket, said only the plane's tail section remained intact after the plane had burned.

The tragedy brought every available doctor in Nantucket and the adjoining island of Martha's Vineyard to Nantucket's 40-bed hospital. Other doctors, nurses, and medical supplies were flown from Boston, Falmouth, and New York. Blood and shock concentrates were flown from Boston. Some 30 pints of blood were flown from New York.

Because of the limited medical facilities on the island, seven of the most seriously injured were flown in an Air Force plane to Boston's Massachusetts General Hospital.

It was the second major air tragedy in two days. A Dutch KLM Super Constellation crashed in the Atlantic off Shannon, Ireland, Thursday, with the loss of 99 lives.

Crashed In Woodland — Friday night's crash was in a boggy woodland. A Coast Guard team of 16 men served as litter-bearers, carrying the injured and the dead.

It was hours before many of the dead were identified. Some were horribly burned.

At the controls of the Convair was one of Northeast Airlines' most experienced pilots, John Burnham, 36, of Marshfield. Also killed were the copilot, David Carey, 23, of Nantucket, and Stewardess Arlene Dabek 23, of Manchester, N.H.

George Gardner, Northeast Airlines board chairman, said the last contact with the plane was at 11:14 p. m. when the airline office notified the ill-fated plane that visibility was four miles with scattered clouds at 12,000 feet.

Came Down Too Low — George Lusk of the airport maintenance crew said the pilot "apparently came down too low and hit some low pine trees and scrub growth, cutting a swath 500 feet long. The plane shattered and wreckage was strewn all about."

Youngstown Man Held In Extortion Plot

CLEVELAND (AP)—An unemployed man who allegedly was attempting to extort $50,000 from a Youngstown family was arrested early today by Cleveland agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Agent W. A. Murphy identified the man as John T. Casey, 33, of Youngstown. He said Casey was nabbed by agents at a payoff point about five miles southwest of Youngstown, near the Ohio turnpike.

Casey had sent a letter to Leon A. Beeghly on July 31, demanding $50,000 on a threat of death, Murphy said. A trap was set up by agents Friday night following a series of notes and telephone calls.

Murphy said Casey would appear before U. S. Commissioner in Youngstown today on a charge of violating the federal extortion statute.

There is an application here to the journey through life which eventually leads us to the later years, to retirement from intense daily routine, and to the so-called problems of old age.

We hear a great deal about these problems these days. Men resist giving up their jobs. They feel lost without their work. They miss being "wanted" or "needed."

The extreme aged, we are told, can be very difficult. It seems there is a tendency to develop unwarranted suspicion, imaginary doubts and fears and a sense of insecurity.

But certainly this is not true of all men in retirement, and it is definitely not true of all elderly persons.

On every hand, we see those to whom each day is a day challenged by a worthwhile purpose, another day of opportunity to do good in the world. To these older folks there is no loss of time or daylight in their lives, no darkness or bitterness or fear, only longer hours of hope, confidence and faith.

WHAT MAKES the difference? They believe that growing old, too, is a part of God's plan for mankind. They believe in the promise that God is the source of all strength, all truth and all security for the whole of life, including the later years.

Which way are you traveling—east or west are you headed to expand the added hours of an ever-expanding twilight, or is your journey such that time is slipping away into the dark fastness of an early night?

It's the calm, lengthening twilight we want, all of us, but now is the time to decide whether it will be that way.

Darkness cannot exist where there is light. The problems of age and retirement cannot stand up against the light of an unshakable faith.

Bible Words for Today

MARK 11:22 — "Jesus answered them, 'Have faith in God.'"

The Christian faces no more important question than this: When adversity comes, what am I to do? Jesus faced this problem. Never more than on the cross. It was one thing to preach faith in days of popularity. It was another to practice faith when the cross rose like a grim symbol of defeat. Yet there He prayed, "Father, into thy hands I commit my spirit," exemplifying the trust that triumphs.

The Christian soon learns that it is easier to talk about trust than to practice it. Yet trust he must if he is to overcome adversity. Adversity can be the greatest obstacle to faith, or, rightly used, can become the means of vital Christian living. Noble sons of God have not alone borne trouble — they have used it to create a life that made them sons of God.

What is our attitude in adversity? If we meet it with rebellion, self-pity, or despair, it becomes a mortal foe. If we meet it with trust in God, it becomes an undesired but potent ally in the creation of Christlikeness. Let us have faith in a trustworthy God, and in the power of that faith make "all things work together for good."

An Ever Lengthening Twilight

If you have done any considerable amount of traveling by plane, perhaps you have noted an interesting difference between a trip east and a trip west during late afternoon and evening hours.

For example, leaving New York City at 4 p. m. this time of year, you arrive in Denver at 7 o'clock. It is still daylight in Denver, and you have gained 3 hours.

On the contrary, leaving Denver mid-afternoon on the same type of nonstop plane, you do not arrive in New York until 8 hours later — by the clock, that is. It is late night when you arrive, and you have lost 3 hours.

There is an application here to the journey through life which eventually leads us to the later years, to retirement from intense daily routine, and to the so-called problems of old age.

Making The World Safe For Democracy

"Mixed reactions," as the phrase goes, followed President Eisenhower's address to the United Nations General Assembly.

It was a powerful speech that convinced everybody but the Arab nationalists. It was a skillfully constructed attempt to switch emphasis in the Middle East from politics to economics under circumstances that clearly made success unlikely.

Or it might be pointed out that it was a speech someone had to make sooner or later, to express something that could not be left unsaid any longer; namely, that the United States was ready to adopt a policy of co-existence in the Middle East.

It would have to be a speech, when it was made, whose words would both conceal and reveal the central fact that the United States was ready to acknowledge it could no run the Eastern Mediterranean basin to suit itself and therefore was ready to join a syndicate of overseers under the authority of the United Nations.

And to make it additionally clear that the United States was tempering its wind to the tender sensibilities of other nations interested in the Middle East, the President would use these words:

"This world of individual nations is not going to be controlled by any one power or group of powers. The dream of world domination by one power, or a world of conformity, is an impossible dream."

This would be interpreted in the West to mean that the Soviet Union and its satellites never would dominate the world. But it could be interpreted in the Middle East to mean that the United States was not hinking about dominating the world, either. That was the main message.

Something has happened to the meaning of an American slogan that was heard during and after World War I—"making the world safe for democracy."

Middle Easterner have shown no interest in a "world of conformity." They will interpret Mr. Eisenhower's statement to mean that the United States was not thinking about conformity and that the Soviet Union — or Britain, or France—cannot enforce it, either.

Neither their world nor the world in general is going to conform to the specification of the United States, the Soviet Union, or any other power. Arab nationalism, the President has conceded, is every bit a respectable in its way a French nationalism. Even conspiratorial Communism might be respectable under the new U.S. formula, as long as it drew a careful distinction between indirect and direct aggression.

The era in which the United States imagined it could make the world conform—in which it dreamed of making the world safe for democracy by making the whole world democratic—is ending. From now on, it will try to make the world safe for self-determination.

We're All In This Together

President Eisenhower, with good intentions, has told business and labor to take it easy about pushing up profits and wage rates, lest consumers rebel. This is an old story in White House statements.

With due respect for good presidential intentions, it is less than half the story about the danger of too much inflation. It is easy for a government spokesman to bayl out the people for the government's mistakes in a representative democracy — and inflation is a federal policy.

The people of the United States have shown no popular favor for taxation so punitive it forces them to defend their incomes by forcing arbitrary increases. Part of the incentive system has become the dark art of either avoiding taxes altogether or absorbing the impact in an inflationary pillow.

Can the President have forgotten so soon that when consumers finally did rebel against prices forced too high by profits and wage rates struggling to catch up to inflation, the immediate reaction in Washington was to resume the deficit financing that is the prime source of inflation?

THE NATIONAL debt limit has had to be lifted again, which in financial reality amounts to watering the currency and clinching the certainty of still higher taxes over a still longer period of years. All hope of tax reduction has been wiped out. Instead of reduction, there will be a thumping increase this year, in the guise of higher old-age benefit payments to be used for current federal spending needs and thus added to the nation, debt for repayment when old-age benefits fall due, with interest to be paid in the meantime.

It was tough and go early this year to keep the federal government from pumping still more inflation into the economic system with a pork-barrel spree of public spending on a straight IOU basis. It wasn't all nipped in the bud, either. Hundreds of millions of dollars will be frittered away by public agencies for the sheer political joy of spending. For example, tucked away in the Defense Department appropriation of the new fiscal year is a crazy item for 143 new armories that no one is asking for and no one wants.

Not the public, certainly. Not business, not labor. Not taxpayers. Just spenders.

Once Over

With Ike's appearance at the U.N. two contrasting types of golf were demonstrated. Ike showed orthodox form but he was hardly off the green when Gromyko leaped onto the green and gave a demonstration of addressing the ball standing upside down.

Andrej resumed the old charge that a correct score constitutes capitalist aggression and that any foursome of Free World players is a group of colonial conspirators.

Gromyko is a novelty golfer. He carries 33 caddies, uses a baseball bat to sink a putt and declares all scoreboards except his to be sinister threats to world peace.

HE HOLDS IT A Wall street plot to clean a golf ball, tees up his ball in traps and announces his final score while his first drive is still in the air. And it seemed to spectators that he considered a request for silence during a backswing as "trampling on the rights of all decent peoples."

Gromyko, "Father of the Walkout," "Nyet Man of the Century" and holder of the Veto Hurling world record, lost no time beating Ike, the U. S. and Free World over the head with everything but the kitchen sink and converting the U. N. production "TV House of the August Moon" into usual knockdown and dragout affair.

It must have seemed restful for Ike to get back to the mood of Burning Tree Golf Club where the traps are difficult but not so deep as those on the East River course.

A LONG TIME ago, when Dwight Eisenhower was looking forward to being president, he promised to curb the spenders. He was going to clip their wings, he said.

They clipped his wings, instead. They captured him alive and made him their prisoner. Business and labor had better take it easy or consumers will rebel — those who aren't already in a state of rebellion. That's the truth. But government spenders had better take it easy, too. We're all in this together. We either will hold down inflation collectively, or somebody will let the air out of our balloons separately.

Not every person knows his or her blood type, although they should.

Knowing it and having a blood type card in your wallet could save your life someday, at a time when seconds count. People don't plan to be injured in accidents and consequently it is only a wise precaution to have your blood classified now.

In case you don't know your blood type, there's an easy way to find out. Simply visit the Red Cross Bloodmobile station at the First Methodist Church on Monday. Donate a pint of blood to help some other person who is ill or injured. The Red Cross will notify you later of your blood type.

The Bloodmobile needs donors and you ought to know your blood type. Register by calling the Red Cross today.

Fair Time Again

County fair time has rolled around again, a season when urban folks rub elbows with farmers and admire nature's rich agricultural harvest.

The 113th Columbiana County Fair at Lisbon runs all next week, with the Mahoning County agriculture exposition at Canfield scheduled Aug. 28-Sept. 1 and the Stark County Fair at Canton Aug. 29-Sept. 3.

County fair time also brings the excitement of the midway, livestock champions and handicraft displays of the granges and 4-H clubs, plus the horse races and other entertainment features at the grandstand.

County fair time is a pleasant interlude between summer and fall.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United Nations' 81 members may have to pause in their ding-dong fight over the Middle East, starting Wednesday, while they wait around once more with the old question of membership for Red China.

Every time this came up previously the United States lined up enough votes to keep the Chinese Reds out. It can probably do so again. But the State Department, as if expecting trouble, has just put out a 5,000-word document outlining the U. S. position on the issue.

This is in part a flat explanation—and in part a kind of question-and-answer explanation — of why the United States refuses to recognize the Red Chinese as the lawful government of China, and therefore opposes a seat in the U. N. for them.

It's a pretty cold, realistic document, unusually free of moralizing, except for one broad splash of wishful thinking. And in one spot it's a little less than candid. It's wishful thinking for the department to say it holds the view that Communist rule in China is not permanent. There's nothing solid to indicate otherwise.

And it's a little less than can-

Most fascinating detail about submerging under the polar ice cap is the constant temperature and humidity inside the submarines — 72 degrees and a relative humidity between 40 and 50. Waltz With The Reds did — in explaining America support of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government on Formosa—to speak of the Nationalists' growing power without adding Chiang couldn't stand five minutes without American help.

By JAMES MARLOW

For a while in 1950—after the Reds drove Chiang off the mainland and to Formosa—the Truman administration's policy was one of non-interference in the Chinese civil war. This meant leaving Chiang to his fate.

This abruptly changed when the Reds entered the Korean War. Ever since, under both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations, U. S. policy has been the same: nonrecognition and opposition to a seat in the U. N. for the Reds.

Here is the U. S. explanation for refusing recognition:

It's to this country's interest not to recognize the Reds. If the situation changes, and if it would be to the benefit of this country to change its policy, it will do so.

Without using this exact language, the department said the Reds outlawed themselves by their attack in Korea and by breaking agreements and promises since then.

Further: the Chinese Reds are breathing down the necks of their Asian neighbors and want to communize the continent. This country has lined up with the non-Communist nations and is doing what it can through economic and military help to keep them non-Red.

To give the Reds diplomatic recognition would give them prestige they don't have now, increase their influence, bewilder the non-Communist Asians, make them uncertain of American policies, and perhaps weaken their resistance to Peiping.

And, if this country gave the Reds recognition, it would lead to a U. N. seat for them. This would mean turning over Chiang's seat to them and, eventually, the end of his government.

Then the department dwelt on questions that have been raised about the wisdom of this American policy. And it gave answers. They went this way:

Don't the Red Chinese, since they actually run mainland China, have a right to American recognition? No. Such recognition is a privilege, not a right. This country can grant it or withhold it.

But how can this country "ignore" a government which controls all mainland China and rules over 600 million people? The department said the Communists who run China are only 2 per cent of the population and besides, because of their brutality, have caused a lot of popular unrest.

(This is not one of the department's best arguments. Only a small percentage of the Russians are Communists, yet the Reds there control over 200 million people and this country, despite Soviet Communist brutality, has recognized the Kremlin regime for years.)

Might not recognition of Red China eventually weaken the ties between Red China and the Soviet Union? The department said there's no evidence to support this belief and argued at length to the contrary.

Wouldn't this country widen its trade by recognizing Red China? The department doesn't think much of trade possibilities with the Red Chinese.

Heaven Alone Can Meet Every Want

Ten years ago this month, amid an accolade of great expectations and crazy financial estimates, the Attlee Labor government of Britain launched its so-called "National Health Service. Aneurin Bevan, radical socialist, if not its father was its nurse and guardian in its early years, as minister of health.

(On one occasion in the House of Commons Bevan accused Winston Churchill, then leader of the opposition, of calling him "minister of ill-health." Churchill replied that the Right Honorable gentleman was incorrect: "I called him minister of disease.")

Under this flowering of the welfare state, everything at first was free — medical and dental care, drugs, hospitalization, false teeth and false hair, spectacles, braces invalid chairs and other items. Later, as costs became prohibitive, a small charge was made for spectacles and drugs, although Laborites shouted angry dissent.

A sort of compulsory insurance was supposed to cover a considerable part of the cost, with what results I shall presently show. The major expense fell upon the generosity of taxpayers.

CONFRONTED WITH competition with Dr. Santa Claus, private practitioners succumbed and entered the service. Their offices were jammed with patients and hospitals were crowded with the real and imaginary ill.

Pharmacists did well with "sales" of real and palliative drugs and nostrums. The average doctor, confronted with a clientele running into the hundreds, dismissed them with prescriptions or passed them on to hospitals.

With steadily mounting costs, it was impossible for the government to rebuild or replace antiquated hospitals. Only one new health service hospital has been completed since the war.

The Laborites' estimate of costs proved utterly wrong in the very first year, when the final budget reckoning indicated expenses of $1,200,000,000. From then on costs have mounted, until in the present fiscal year the bill will be more than two billion dollars.

This is certainly not due to any rise in population, for the cost per capita has grown 46 per cent. Nor can it be attributed, except in part, to inflation.

Since government has assumed the entire responsibility for medical and dental care, there has been a slowing down of voluntary and co-operative plans. And private philanthropy, staggering under heavy income and death taxes, has been of slight help.

As for covering this immense cost with "insurance" — a fraudulent claim made in the United States in behalf of various schemes for government medicine — only about 15 per cent of the cost of the Health Service has been covered by "national insurance contributions." The big burden is on the general taxpayer.

TWO IMPORTANT conclusions arise from a consideration of this experiment in socialism.

The first is that the human weakness known as hypochondria not only is very prevalent but its growth can be prodigious when there is no economic deterrent in the way of pestering a doctor with imaginary ailments. Yet the government pays for these maladies imaginaires just the same as for the really sick and they can be treated more easily.

Another conclusion is that under this universal free service the needy, physically and financially, have not done so well as under the systems of aid that prevailed before 1948.

Under the old arrangements the aged, the chronic and the indigent were treated to medical care and hospitalization without charges by various local authorities. Under the philosophy of welfarism a "needs" test is degrading. Hence, under the system no "need" might be investigated. The effect of spreading the limited means of a postwar Britain over the entire population meant that the needy got less than before.

One tragic result has been the effect upon the system under which children get dental attention while in school. This, as anyone who has traveled in England will know, is a dire necessity. But immediately after the new regime took over, dentists left the relatively unremunerative school service to care for the general public. Hence, the school dental service almost entirely collapsed.

This experience of Britain under socialism proves a fundamental that the "brave new world" cannot or will not face. There is enough for every need but Heaven alone can meet every want.

Custer Myths Persist

By RALPH FRIEDMAN

CROW AGENCY, Mont. More than 130,000 persons visited the Custer Battlefield National Monument last year and asked the monument rangers an average of one question per visitor.

Among the leading questions asked were:

"Where is Custer buried?" (West Point.)

"How many Indians were killed?" (Probably several hundred.)

"Was Custer scalped?" (No.)

Most of these quiz-kid rangers are history majors attending college. This year's group comes from the Universities of Buffalo, Oklahoma, Wisconsin and Nebraska and Montana State College. They bunched on their subject in the monument's library, which has the largest collection of "Custeriana" in the world.

The rangers spend a great amount of time tearing down myths. The most prevalent is that Custer was the last man to be killed. "Not necessarily so," says Jack McDermott, who has an MA degree in American History from Wisconsin and has spent two years at the monument. "No one really knows and it's doubtful that anyone ever will," he adds.

Although important aspects of the battle are shrouded in mystery, new information is still being discovered. Late in June, the skeletal remains of three of the soldiers with Benteen and Reno, group commanders under Custer, were found during the reconstruction of rifle pits.

Looking Backward

5 YEARS AGO — Captain Jim Pidgeon Jr. led the Salem poloists, scoring four goals, when they defeated Cleveland riders 9-5 at the polo grounds. Tony Sheen had three goals and Willy Smith two for Salem. Roy Bates was the other team member.

10 YEARS AGO — Mrs. Jennie Yost of Baltimore, Md. is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Harry Hoch of Cleveland St. Another sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. George Eicher of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., also have been guests in the Hoch home.

25 YEARS AGO — Mrs. W. W. Andrews and Mrs. H. P. Litty returned from Lima where they attended the annual state meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary. They were delegates from the Salem unit.

40 YEARS AGO — Mrs. Mary Rice of W. Dry St. went to Leontia Thursday afternoon to visit friends.

Miss Laura Fawcett and Mrs. Edward Dougher and son, Paul, spent Wednesday in New Castle, Pa.

Historians say the terrain looks the same as it did when the battle was fought, on the hot day of June 25, 1876. There is one minor exception: The Little Big Horn River, below the battlefield, has somewhat altered its course during the years.

One look at the terrain is enough to topple the myth that the Indians made their charge on horseback. The ground is covered with sagebrush and is cut and sliced by ravines, ridges and precipitous slopes.

Actually, according to McDermott, the Indians crawled along the cliffs and gullies until they were on all sides of Custer's men. One-third of the Indians were equipped with firearms, the rest used bows and arrows.

Nor was there a "final charge" says McDermott. The massacre was accomplished largely from fixed positions.

Visitors also ask about the famous chiefs who led the Sioux tribes in their attack. Sitting Bull, Crazy Horse, Rainin-the-Face, Gall.

Most people give Sitting Bull most of the "credit" for the massacre but actually, according to McDermott, Sitting Bull was a medicine man — not a warrior chief — and at the time of the attack he was in his tent praying. The leading Indian at the battle of the Little Big Horn River, McDermott says, was Chief Gall, the handsome, resolute general of the Uncpapa tribe of Sioux.

Among other questions asked are:

"Which Indian killed Custer?" (No one knows. He had been shot twice, either bullet could have been fatal.)

"Were any of the soldiers mutilated?" (No.)

"Were there any survivors?" (The only survivor was Commanche, one of the horses in Custer's command.)

"Did Custer make a mistake?" (Most contemporary historians believe Custer made several errors of strategic judgment, the last being that he did not trust the judgment of his scouts, who warned him that he was riding into a large Indian encampment, the largest any scout had ever seen.)

Seek to Jam 'Voice' Broadcasts

Russians Employ New Gimmick In War of Noise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has developed a new gimmick in its war of noise.

It now is jamming U.S. and other Western radio broadcasts on such a large scale it has had to give code names to its jamming stations.

U.S. officials said today the code system apparently helps Soviet engineers in preventing their noise machines from jamming Russia's broadcasts to its own people.

The Russians, old hands at interfering with foreign broadcasts, currently are operating about 2,500 jammers, according to authoritative informants here.

The bulk of their jamming effort this week has been aimed at preventing the Russian people from hearing Voice of America broadcasts of the debate in the U.N. General Assembly on the Middle East crisis.

President Eisenhower expressed regret Thursday that the Soviets were trying to exclude the broadcasts of the U.N. proceedings.

U.S. officials have been puzzled by the whole undertaking. For one thing, the Soviet press and radio have built up the importance of the U.N. session. And for another, Voice broadcasts have been limited to reporting simply what was happening in New York — covering the speech of Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko on the same basis as the one by Eisenhower. But Gromyko was jammed along with Eisenhower by the Russian noisemakers.

U.S. propaganda experts said the Soviet government probably wanted the Russian people and, indeed, the whole Communist bloc, to learn of the proceedings only as the Kremlin decided to interpret them.

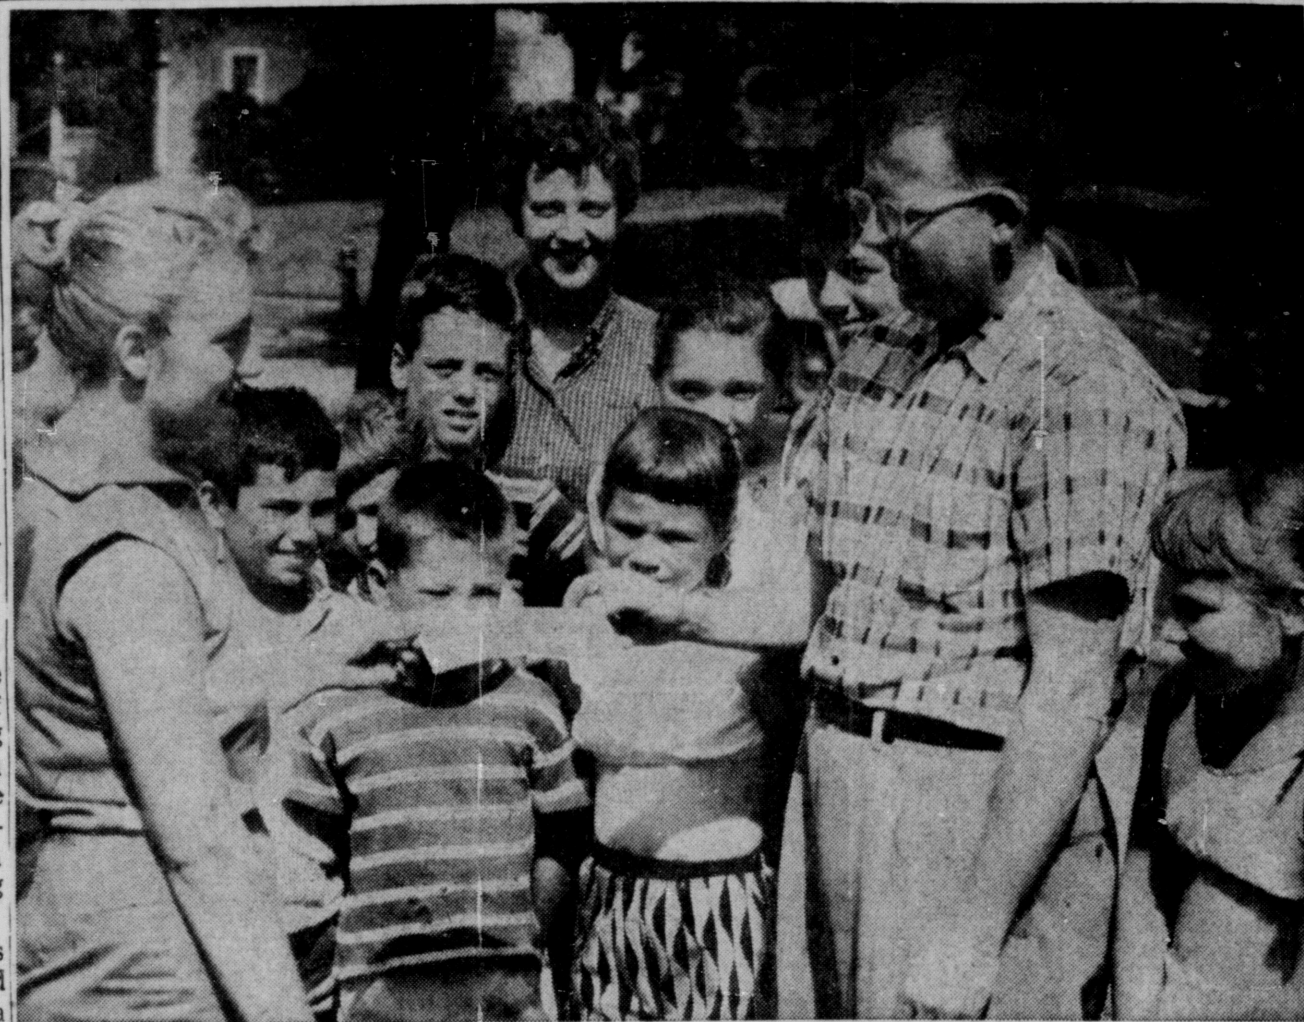

Engineers of the U.S. Information Agency, which operates the Voice of America, said most of the jammers make a howling sound repeated over and over. In the case of stations with code designations the howling is interrupted every few seconds with a series of dots and dashes giving the station's name.

If the racket transmitter strays from its assigned frequency and begins to create interference for a Soviet broadcast, official monitors detect the interference, identify the source of it by the code imbedded in the jamming and order a quick correction.

U.S. A. estimated that the cost of operating the jamming stations to the Russians is in excess of 100 million dollars a year, or considerably above this country's own efforts to spread information over the world.

Hats Will Cap More Formal Hairdos In Fall

THE EMPIRE LOOK in fall fashions has influenced beauty, too. The romantic Madame Recamier hairdos shown here owe their existence to the new clothes. We show them with suggested hat types. The hair is swept smoothly back from the forehead (upper left) and given light curls at the temples. Hair is curled high at the back of the head. The ideal hat for this hairstyle is (upper right) a pair-

ley pillbox which shows off hair to advantage. The classic Madame Recamier hairstyle is (lower left) parted smoothly at center with soft curls at the sides. There's a chignon of fluffy curls at the back. For this hairdo, the soft walking hat, tilted to one side, is perfect. These hairstyles are by Coiffures Americana.

How to Take Off a Few Extra Pounds

A man came to see me a couple of years ago to talk about his personal problems. First of all he was quite nervous, so we discussed formulas for healing nervousness. Then he said his doctor insisted that he reduce pounds, but he just couldn't take of weight.

Dr. Peale

"What's easy," I told him. "Look at me. I've just taken off thirty-five pounds." "How did you do it?" he asked. I answered, "The only way to get thin is to stop eating fattening things."

"Sure, I know, but that's just the trouble. I like fattening food. How do you do it?" he asked glumly. "You do it by just doing it," I replied. "You do it by discipline. And you have to attack the problem by mental strategy."

I COULD SEE THAT he was not enthusiastic about discipline. So I told him about a weight control formula mentioned to me by Captain George D. Cox of the S. S. President Wilson, with whom I sailed to the Far East last year. Captain Cox's formula is: "Just take a good dose of the wonder drug sulphadiazine."

Then I explained to him that power of will is gained by inserting into your personality through the medium of right thinking a new element of strength: the spiritual ability to deny yourself. This gives you power of self-discipline far beyond that which you normally have. You will find it not at all difficult to regulate intake and leave off those rich desserts. You can acquire this new power of will by first of all really wanting it. Then you pray for it, believing it will be given to you. Desire plus faith added to prayer is the formula that makes will power possible. Following that, the will must be exercised.

Every time you deny yourself, you are actually toughening your spiritual muscles. The reason the will is flabby is due to disuse. Use it and it grows strong.

THE NEXT STEP in losing weight by dieting is to use the amazing power of imagination which is even stronger than will power. Imagination means just what it says — "Image-ing." It means projecting images or pictures of desired conditions. And a basic fact of human nature is the tendency to become what we habitually imagine (or image) ourselves as being. What you see, you are! So it helps like magic to picture yourself as slender.

Decide what weight you want to be. Then don't fool yourself but really want to see the scales at that figure. Then toughen up your will. Finally hold that picture of yourself as slim, clothes fitting comfortably, collar nice and lose waistline a couple of inches less. Hold the image of how good you will feel. In other words, put the immense power of the mental picture behind your objective.

Of course, these two steps are only part of the program for losing weight which I was able to give to my visitor in some detail. They are probably the two most important steps — and after he learned to take them, he was on his way to a solution not only of his weight problem but of many of his other emotional problems as well. For, often, overeating is a symptom of emotional difficulty. We eat because of some thing eating us.

IT ISN'T VERY OFTEN that a minister writes about reducing, a subject usually left to medical editors and beauty columnists. But I believe that anything that concerns human well-being should come within the province of the minister. Plato, one of the wisest men who ever lived, wrote: "So neither ought you attempt to cure the body without the soul. . . . For this is the great error of our day. . . . that physicians separate the soul from the body."

But, of course, in dealing with the problem of overweight, the minister alone cannot help you. You need medical advice as well. In thinking about this question of reducing and its impotence to our general well-being, I began some discussions with my brother, Dr. Robert Clifford Peale, a physician and surgeon in Olean, New York. The result of our talks was a little booklet about the problems of overweight, written jointly by us and called "Live Longer and Better." If this is your problem, I would be happy to send you a copy with my compliments. Just write to me in care of The Salem News and perhaps we can help you take off pounds.

Cpl. John Miller and Patrolman M. R. Darrah of the Lisbon State Highway Patrol Barracks attended a one-day course of instruction in Warren Thursday on this fall's school bus inspection program. Capt. THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

All-Stars' 2 Pass Plays, 4 Field Goals Defeat Lions 35-19

Winners Score 20 In 2nd Frame

Collegians Are Held To 3 Yards Rushing

CHICAGO (AP) — The lights went out on the haughty Detroit Lions more ways than one Friday night as the College All-Stars short-circuited the National Football League champs with the pros' own favored weapons.

Held to only three yards rushing, Otto Graham's snappy collegians engineered two electrifying touchdown pass plays, and a record-matching four field goals to whomp the Lions 35-19 before 70,000 gleeful fans in Soldier Field.

The 35 points were a collegiate high in a series that now has produced 8 All-Star victories against 15 losses and 2 ties.

Rocked by the All-Stars' 20-point second quarter, the Lions already were pretty much in the dark when they groped their way to their dressing room at intermission only to find it blacked out from a power failure.

The unhappy pros had to spend the halftime respite parked outside their room amidst curious fans.

The All-Stars, 14-point underdogs, played inspired football right down the line, but there were three distinct heroes — Bobby Mitchell of Illinois, Jim Ninowski of Michigan State and Bobby Conrad of Texas A & M.

Quarterback Ninowski and half-back Mitchell, both ticketed for the Cleveland Browns of the NFL, combined for two thrilling pass-run touchdowns in the second quarter to turn the tide.

Conrad, 6 feet 2, 190-pounder booted four field goals—of 19, 42 and 24 yards—and in addition played a whale of a game at defensive halfback. He also converted three times for 15 points.

The amazing thing about Conrad's field kicking was that the former Texas Aggie never attempted a field goal in his collegiate career. Conrad will play pro ball with the Chicago Cardinals.

The game-breaker was Mitchell's blinding touchdown sprint down the sidelines on an 84-yard pass-run play with Ninowski early in the second quarter with the Lions ahead 7-3 and seemingly just toying with the collegians.

Still in the second period, Ninowski, who completed 14 of 20 passes for 243 yards, shot another shallow pass to Mitchell, who again mesmerized the Lions with his elusiveness and sped 18 to a touchdown.

Quarterbacks Tobin Rote and Bobby Layne could not get the Lions off their haunches. Rote was nailed by the fierce-charging collegiate forwards for a safety to start the second half, putting the Lions behind 22-7.

There were 11 All-Star game records broken and three tied. The most significant as far as All-Star Head Coach Graham, himself a former pro passing great, was concerned was the 293 collegiate yards through the air. The old record was 172 yards by the 1941 All-Stars.

8,000 Are Expected At Plowing Matches

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio State plowing matches today, the first ever held in Summit County, are expected to attract a crowd of some 8,000 persons.

The state's seven farm areas will be represented by 12 contestants, who will compete on the farm of Mrs. Emma Gigger about four miles south of here on Pickle Road just off Ohio 619.

Five area winners will compete in the contour plowing contest, the more difficult of the two matches, and seven are entered in the level land competition. Judging will be made on the basis of quality rather than the speed with which the contestants plow. Each match is expected to require about an hour.

The two winners will receive trophies and will represent Ohio in the national matches at Hershey, Pa., Aug. 21 and 22. The international competition this year will be held at Stuttgart, Germany, in October.

A half-acre section of Mrs. Gigger's farm will be used for the contour and level-land matches.

DEFENDING CHAMPS AT ARCHERY — Two of last year's national archery champs pose at Grayling, Mich., scene of 1958 National Field Archery tournament this week. Prepared to defend title are Jay Peake, 19, Charleroi, Pa., 1957 field champion for the men's instinctive (without bow sight) division, and Ann Marston, 19, Wyandotte, Mich., who captured last year's free style (with bow sight) division. Her score: A record-breaking 2,390.

Red Sox Defeat Yankees 6-2 Senators, Athletics Victors

(The Associated Newspapers) The Boston Red Sox, doomed months ago to another year of disappointment in the American League pennant race, at last may have found that long sought left-handed pitcher in rookie Ted Bowfield.

The kid has been up just a month, working only 31 innings. But he has a 2-0 record, with both

Tribe Drops Contest 4-3 To White Sox

CHICAGO (AP)—The Cleveland Indians were hampered by a number on aches and pains Friday as they lost to the Chicago White Sox, 4-3 in the opener of a three-game series.

Catcher Russ Nixon left the game in the eighth inning after he was bruised on the throat when hit by a foul tip off Bubba Phillips' bat. He had suffered a bruised right leg on a slide into third base earlier in the same inning.

Center fielder Larry Doby was sidelined in the seventh when he suffered a muscle cramp in his leg while running to first base on a single.

Second baseman Bobby Avila wasn't in the lineup and may miss the other two games of the series as the result of a sprained left elbow he suffered Thursday while diving for a ball against Detroit in Cleveland.

Southpaw Don Ferrarese will pitch for Cleveland tonight against Early Wynn, a veteran right-hander who formerly was with the Indians. Ferrarese has won one game and lost three, while Wynn has a 10-12 record for the season.

The Indians' inability to score with the bases loaded and none out was a factor in their loss Friday. They loaded the bases with none out in the seventh against rookie Barry Latman, but Omar (Turk) Lown, a National League refugee, was called in and retired the side without giving up a run. Chicago held a 4-1 lead at the time.

Lown gave up two Indian runs in the eighth, but he also stopped that rally by striking out two batters—J. W. Porter and Rocky Colavito. He preserved the victory for Latman, who recently was called up from Indianapolis, by retiring the three men he faced in the ninth.

Chicago had a 4-0 lead going into the seventh, when the Indians scored a run on successive singles by Minnie Minoso, Doby and Colavito. Latman walked Gary Geiger to load the bases with none out and Lown was called to his rescue.

Cleveland got its last two runs in the eighth on a single by Vic Power, a triple by Nixon and a single by Minoso.

The loss was the sixth for the Indians in their last seven games. The Sox now have five out of six and 11 out of 14.

Braves Take 7-Game Lead

Pittsburgh Loses To Cincinnati 6-1

(The Associated Newspapers) Just three days ago Milwaukee had lost a two-game series at Pittsburgh and there were faint thoughts that the Braves might still have a dog-fight ahead for the National League pennant.

Now Joey Jay and Carl Willey, two right-handers 'who couldn't break into the Braves' pitching pattern a year ago, have come up with consecutive shutouts and the world champions are seven games ahead again with a four-game winning streak.

Jay, needing ninth-inning relief despite a one-hitter, won 3-0 at Cincinnati Thursday night. Then Willey went all the way for a six-hit, 1-0 decision over Philadelphia Friday night while Cincinnati junked Pittsburgh's winning string at seven by beating the second-place Pirates 6-1.

Third-place San Francisco lost 3-1 to the Chicago Cubs in 10 innings. And the Los Angeles Dodgers returned to the first division for the first time since the fourth game of the season by sweeping a two-night pair from St. Louis. The Dodgers, unbeaten since Manager Walt Alston was told he'd be rehired for 1959, tied the Cards for fourth by winning 4-3, in 11 innings, and 5-3.

In the American League, pennant-bound New York was beaten 6-2 at Boston, cutting the Yankees' lead to 1½ games. The second-place Chicago White Sox defeated Cleveland 4-3. Kansas City rapped Detroit 12-5 and Washington beat Baltimore 3-1.

Willey won his sixth in a row with his third shutout for an 8-3 record. He had the Phils hitless until Richie Ashburn, who had half of the Phils' hits, lined a third-inning single — his 2,000th major league hit.

Robin Roberts (12-11) kept the shutout pace with a six-hitter until the eighth. Then his lone walk, a stolen base, an infield hit and Wes Covington's single handed the veteran right-hander his eighth 1-0 defeat in the majors, most by any active pitcher.

Dave Hillman and Stu Miller had a shutout duel for seven innings at San Francisco before singles by Hillman and Tony Taylor and a force out gave the Cubs a 1-0 lead in the eighth. Hillman, who struck out 10, now is 3-4. Miller is 3-8.

Motorcycle Hill Climb Set Sunday

The Ohio State Motorcycle Hill Climbing Championship will be held Sunday at East Palestine. Riders of six states including national champions will try their skill on the 160-foot trestle.

Entries entered to date include Howard Mitzel of York, Pa., Jake and Daune Nealen of Bedford, Darrell Bryan of Columbus, Earl Buck of Detroit, Larry Franz of Cleveland and Clarence Eckner of Columbus.

Four big events are listed with two special events for boys 12 and 15 years old. The hill is located on Rt. 170. Free parking space and picnic grounds are available.

DON'T FORGET, HE CAN ALSO PITCH — As good a clown as he is a pitcher, Warren Spahn threw out his chest and put on his best grin for photographers in dressing room in Milwaukee. He had just won game No. 14 (he's lost 7) and set down San Francisco Giants for his Milwaukee Braves with four hits.

Browns-Steelers Game Set Tonight

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Cleveland Browns will have veterans in the starting lineup for the most part when they meet the Pittsburgh Steelers in an exhibition game tonight at the Rubber Bowl.

The National Football League's eastern division rulers wound up three weeks of training with a 20-minute loosening up session at their Hiram Camp Friday. All appeared to be ready for tonight's contest with the exception of tackle Don (Tiny) Goss, who is still bothered by a groin injury.

The primary test for the Browns in their first game of the year will be in the offense. The Pittsburgh defense is completely veteran and, on the basis of its record, is solid.

Last season the Steelers were second only to the Browns in the least number of points allowed and led the League with the least number of first downs allowed opponents.

The Browns' backfield on offense will be a familiar one, with Milt Plum at quarterback. Billy Reynolds and Ray Renfro at the half-back positions and Jim Brown at fullback. Renfro is starting his seventh season with the Browns.

Pittsburgh Coach Buddy Parker plans to start Len Dawson, former Purdue passer from Alliance, Ohio, at quarterback. Veteran fullback Paul (Tank) Younger, who was obtained from the Los Angeles Rams, also is expected to give the Steelers' ground game a needed lift.

Cleveland won the two previous exhibition games between the two teams—taking a 41-31 decision in 1950 and winning by a score of 28-13 last season.

The Browns and Steelers will meet twice during the regular season.

Leetonia Boosters to Open Membership Drive on Tuesday

LEETONIA — The Leetonia Booster Club will hold an open meeting Tuesday evening at 8:30 in the High School at which time a membership drive will be started.

Moon

Lights and shadows if the probe gets within several thousand miles of the moon — or to provide simple pictures of the far side of the moon if a lunar orbit is achieved.

Other instruments in the probe will measure magnetic fields and the impact of particles in outer space.

Would Take 2.6 Days

If the probe heads for the moon the voyage will take 2.6 days.

Routine missile test activities continued despite the excitement over a possible moon shoot.

Shortly before noon Friday, a B-57 ground-to-air missile was launched by remote control from the Cape, by the SAGE—Semi Automatic Ground Environment—Defense Center at Kingston, N.Y., 1,500 miles to the north. It was the second push button Bomarc firing of that type this month.

The Bomarc launching Friday was so successful that the missile actually grazed the pilotless B-7 bomber that was its target. Ground crews brought the wounded old bomber home to a safe landing.

An invitation is extended to the parents of both the High School and junior high school football teams. There will be a demonstration of football equipment and a discussion of the new rules.

SX TABLES of 500 were in play Thursday evening at the card-party sponsored by the Rebekah Lodge. High score prizes were awarded to Mrs. Elva Snyder and William Bixler. Special prizes were won by Bernard Straub, Susan Wetzel and Mrs. Carl Varian. The next benefit party will be Saturday, Aug. 23.

COMMUNION SERVICE will be observed at the worship hour of 11 a.m. Sunday in the First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. William L. Woodall is pastor.

The Leetonia — Washingtonville Kiwanis Club will meet Monday evening at 6:10 at the Methodist Church in Washingtonville. Dr. Paul Conrad will have charge of the program. Members are reminded the annual family picnic will be held at Firestone Park, Columbiana, Monday, Aug. 25.

The Mary Greenamyer Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Charlotte Harold, Walnut St., Wednesday.

The Ladies Auxiliary of knights of Columbus will sponsor a benefit card party Sunday evening. Proceeds will go in the cemetery fund.

Atchisons Honored At Church Party

DAMASCUS — Rev. and Mrs. William Atchison were honored at a farewell reception in the Friends Church Thursday evening.

Rev. Atchison, pastor of the Damascus Friends church for three years, has accepted a call to the Quaker Hill Friends' Church at Sebring.

A program was presented and a dinette set presented to Rev. and Mrs. Atchison and a watch to the minister. Two hundred attended the event.

Rev. Edward Escolme, former extension superintendent of Ohio Yearly Meeting of Friends, will succeed Rev. Atchison here Oct. 1. His time should begin Sept. 1, however he has asked for a month's leave so he and his wife can go to Europe. Both are natives of Scotland.

that certain variations in the moon's motion sometimes allow observers to see a little past its poles and a little around its sides. The features visible at these times are similar to the features we see all the time.

At best, however, we have never seen more than 59 per cent of the moon, and no one can say for sure what may lie on the other side.

Even our satellite's familiar face poses many mysteries. Some observers claim to have seen changes in the moon's surface that could only have been caused by vegetation. Others equally competent, say they have never seen indications of lunar plant life.

As for atmosphere, experts agree the moon has nothing comparable to the earth's. However, some think there may be a very thin atmosphere close to the lunar surface, perhaps trapped in low places.

The moon's origin is like nearly everything else about it—a thing of conjecture.

One of the most fascinating theories, but not the most favored, is that our bright neighbor in space is a true daughter of the earth, ripped from her bosom in some strange convulsion when the solar system was new.

Those who hold this view think the Pacific Ocean may now occupy that portion of the earth from which the moon was torn.

Teamster

During Friday's session, Hoffa denied that he received from employers any of $60,000 represented in his tax returns as gambling wins and bitterly rejected Kennedy's suggestion that alleged loans from Teamster business agents were fabricated to conceal the true source of large sums.

"If you don't want to accept my word for it," Hoffa snapped at Kennedy, "there is no way to convince you."

In accusing Brennan of misuse of funds, the monitors cited testimony last week before the racket committee that Embrel Davidson, a heavyweight boxer, received $8,000 from the Michigan Teamsters welfare fund between 1952 and 1954.

Brennan served as Davidson's manager and Hoffa was pictured as a business associate in the fight deal. When asked about the matter, Brennan invoked the Fifth Amendment.

Davidson was put on the payroll as a claims investigator for the welfare fund, but he testified he never did any union work.

Monitors Martin O'Donoghue and Godfrey Schmidt approved the report. Teamster lawyer, L. N. D. Wells of Dallas, the third monitor, called it "a gross abuse of the monitors' powers."

Senate

out a compromise over farm legislation supported by Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

4. Civil rights—If the Senate doesn't get into too much debate on the social security measure, the controversial nomination of W. Wilson White to be assistant attorney general on civil rights matters might be called up today. Southern senators are strongly opposed to placing White in charge of the new civil rights division in the Justice Department.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.) was joined by several other senators in offering the amendment to boost insurance benefits in the social security bill to 10 per cent.

Say Hike Inadequate
Yarborough said the 7 per cent hike contained in the House-passed bill would be inadequate to meet the needs of retired families living on social security. The provision would bring only a $4.75 increase to each recipient, Yarborough said.

As passed by the House and approved by the Senate Finance Committee, the social security bill would raise benefits to 12 million persons now receiving insurance payments by about 700 million dollars the first year.

It also would increase taxes about 1.1 billion dollars the first year.

The Atomic Energy Commission gets the bulk of the money in the catch-all appropriations bill, about 2 1/2 billion dollars.

Some senators complained the 8.8-billion-dollar total was too large and said a new economy drive would be necessary when Congress meets next year. Before passing the bill the Senate adopted amendments providing for an additional 4 million dollars for civil defense, 15 million for the U.S. Information Agency to build more radio transmitters for overseas broadcasts and 210 million for federal school aid to areas having a heavy ratio of federal employees or military personnel.

Hammarskjold would be instructed to make necessary arrangements to safeguard the independence of Jordan and Lebanon, in order to permit withdrawal of British and American troops.

The Secretary general would be directed also to study the creation of an economic organization for the Middle East.

He would be asked to make recommendations on a U.N. police force, which Eisenhower proposed should be established to safeguard the independence of Middle East nations.

Hammarskjold would be expected to report by Sept. 30 on his findings. This would place the final decision before the regular session of the Assembly slated to open Sept. 16.

Crawford

another office in the general election was unconstitutional.

He hinted that Crawford may ask Common Pleas Court at Lisbon for a writ of mandamus. The Ohio Supreme Court never has ruled on the legality of the law.

Because O'Hanlon had accepted Crawford's petition and filing fee only as a courtesy until the board could act, Crawford is entitled to a refund of $8.16, Brown said.

Once a petition has been filed formally, no refund can be made, O'Hanlon explained.

Rejection of Crawford's petition leaves six candidates seeking the three posts at the general election. They are John C. Fitch of Lisbon and Luther Donbar of Columbiana, incumbents; James L. MacDonald of Lisbon Rd., former prosecuting attorney; Harold McCall, ex-Rogers mayor, and Earl Spalding of East Palestine and Wade A. Loop of Salem, former justices of the peace who were defeated for judgeships a year ago.

Westville

Mrs. George Heston of Westville Lake entertained the Q O club recently. "500" awards went to Mrs. Paul Allison, Mrs. Russell Early and Mrs. Lucy Jevan.

Mrs. Norman Henderson, Mrs. Wilber Ritchie and Mrs. Eva Cattell spent Wednesday in Youngstown. Mrs. Cattell attended the Ladies Bible Class Meeting of the Beloit Sunday school held at Mrs. Cora Pettit's home Wednesday in Youngstown.

EAST PALESTINE — Tonight marks the close of the 26th annual American Legion Street Fair and Homecoming. An estimated crowd of 1,500 persons attended the fair last night. Inclement weather was the cause of the small attendance.

400 Potato Growers at Field Day

Four hundred persons attended the Eastern Ohio Potato Field Day Friday at Firestone Farms, east of Columbiana. Floyd Lower, Columbiana County extension agent, reports.

Rains starting at 3 p. m. forced cancellation of some of the wagon tours and demonstrations, he said.

Speakers were E. C. Wittmeyer, extension horticulturist at Ohio State University; Robert Partka, extension plant pathologist at OSU; V. E. Keirns, manager of the Ohio Potato Growers Association; H. D. Brown, National Potato Chip Institute; Mr. Lower; and Elbert Agnew, president of the Columbiana-Mahoning County Potato Growers Association.

A dinner was served by the Fairfield Ruritan Club.

Different types of potato machinery and equipment were demonstrated during the day-long affair.

Next year's field day will be held in Wayne County.

The affair was jointly sponsored by the Columbiana-Mahoning, Co-shooton, Portage, Tuscarawas and Wayne County Potato Growers Assn.; Ohio Potato Growers Assn.; Ohio Vegetable and Potato Growers Assn.; Agricultural Extension Service and Firestone Homestead Farms.

Area State Parks Will Be Improved

LISBON — Proposed state park improvements, including projects at Guilford Lake, were outlined to State Rep. Clarence "Dutch" Wetzel in a telephone conversation Friday by Col. Herbert D. Egan, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Two toilets will be constructed at the public beach at Guilford Lake this fall. Also scheduled this year are improvements to the parking lot, drilling of a well and seeding around the beach area.

The change booths at the beach are still in the drawing board stage, but they are expected to be completed before June 1, 1959. Toilets and a parking lot will be constructed and a well drilled at Beaver Creek State Forest near Clarkson in St. Clair Twp. this fall.

Picnic tables and steel grills were placed at Guilford and Beaver Creek parks this year.

Wetzel also learned from J. W. Peppel of the State Highway Department that $100,000 has been set aside for state park roads, with $8,000 earmarked for work in Columbiana County.

Col. Egan will spend a couple of days with Rep. Wetzel the last week in August. They will tour the state parks in Columbiana County and inspect land still to be purchased for Highlandtown Lake and Zepernick State Park Lake.
